

CHAPTER 3

Examples of Effective Experiment Design and Data Analysis in Transportation Research

About this Chapter

This chapter provides a wide variety of examples of research questions. The examples demonstrate varying levels of detail with regard to experiment designs and the statistical analyses required. The number and types of examples were selected after consulting with many practitioners. The attempt was made to provide a couple of detailed examples in each of several areas of transportation practice. For each type of problem or analysis, some comments also appear about research topics in other areas that might be addressed using the same approach. Questions that were briefly introduced in Chapter 2 are addressed in considerably more depth in the context of these examples.

All the examples are organized and presented using the outline below. Where applicable, references to the two-volume primer produced under NCHRP Project 20-45 have been provided to encourage the reader to obtain more detail about calculation techniques and more technical discussion of issues.

Basic Outline for Examples

The numbered outline below is the model for the structure of all of the examples that follow.

1. Research Question/Problem Statement: A simple statement of the research question is given. For example, in the maintenance category, does crack sealant A perform better than crack sealant B?
2. Identification and Description of Variables: The dependent and independent variables are identified and described. The latter includes an indication of whether, for example, the variables are discrete or continuous.
3. Data Collection: A hypothetical scenario is presented to describe how, where, and when data should be collected. As appropriate, reference is made to conventions or requirements for some types of data (e.g., if delay times at an intersection are being calculated before and after some treatment, the data collected need to be consistent with the requirements in the Highway Capacity Manual). Typical problems are addressed, such as sample size, the need for control groups, and so forth.
4. Specification of Analysis Technique and Data Analysis: The links between successfully framing the research question, fully describing the variables that need to be considered, and the specification of the appropriate analysis technique are highlighted in each example. References to NCHRP Project 20-45 are provided for additional detail. The appropriate types of statistical test(s) are described for the specific example.
5. Interpreting the Results: In each example, results that can be expected from the analysis are discussed in terms of what they mean from a statistical perspective (e.g., the t-test result from
