University of Braunschweig Englisch Seminar course Second Language Acquisition language English abstract In this paper I will investigate several language productions from Polish learners using the English language and try to uncover their errors Using Error Analysis I will describe and explain the reasons for the error production An interesting question will be whether the Polish speakers may have typical errors which could be related to their native language Due to the numerous kinds of errors it will be necessary to classify them and to relate them to certain reasons Furthermore there exists a difference between an error and a mistake Its importance will be discussed later on Even though Error Analysis initially offers helpful opportunities to investigate error production in a structured way it has several disadvantages which were criticized in past decades In the end the conclusion will give an overview of the contents and summary the handled topics During the last several decades linguists have investigated the way of acquiring a second language Learners have several ways of acquiring a language and the field of second language acquisition SLA tries to uncover and improve them When people try to learn a foreign language they produce a considerable amount of errors These errors have always been made in the learning process and will never cease to occur During the complex investigations of second language acquisition linguists have focused on Error Analysis EA with its aim to take a deeper look on learner production Around the late 60 s this particular analysis was established with an approach of Pit Corder This system shows that errors should be investigated to understand and also improve the linguists attempts of learning a second language Typical questions which arise are why learners make errors and what reasons do they have Before Pit Corder linguists used the Contrastive Analysis CA which examines certain errors and refers to a particular connection between the first and the second language The differences between these two types of analysis will be examined in detail in the following chapter Several steps are needed to analyze various errors in language Investigators have developed procedures to collect identify describe explain and lastly evaluate certain errors These certain steps will be described and underlined with certain examples

Oral Error Treatment in the Second Language Classroom Steffi Joetze, 2011-06-27 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies grade 1 3 University of Cologne language English abstract Should learner errors be corrected If so when should learner errors be corrected Which learner errors should be corrected Who should correct learner errors And how should learner errors be corrected Hendrickson 1978 p 389 This series of questions raised by Hendrickson frame the diverse decisions a teacher has to make within only few seconds in his her daily teaching according to a learner s error To explore special parts of this extensive topic more precisely and to find out what role teacher and learner play exactly in the treatment of oral errors should be the aim of the following investigation First of all the theoretical concept of error and correction itself will be dealt with to make clear from which perspective the subject of oral error treatment in the L2 classroom will be considered Then the paper will have a practical orientation to the L2 classroom in this connection the focus will lie on answering one of the questions raised above namely Should learner errors be corrected With reference to this we try to find out on which factors the decision of correcting not correcting students errors depends Answering the question how learners errors should be corrected represents such a complex issue that it would be impossible to get a complete look at it in this research Therefore recasts and elicitations as special kinds of corrective feedback used in L2 classrooms are considered in detail to get a deeper impact of possible ways students errors are treated in oral work Simultaneously it should be found out if recasts elicitations are effective examples of oral error treatment and whether there are differences in terms of the effectiveness according to the type of error that is made Language Learners and Their Errors John Norrish,1983 The significance of learners' errors for English as a foreign language ,2016-07-19 Seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies grade 2 0 University of Kassel Geistes und Kulturwissenschaften course Error Analysis language English abstract The significance of learners errors and mistakes in the process of learning English as a foreign language has been widely discussed in the field of second language acquisition This paper aims at examining how appropriate the approach of error analysis is to characterize students errors in order to be able to adapt the content of school lessons according to their difficulties To do so the difference of error and mistake will be explained and important concepts of interlanguage and fossilization will be introduced The second part of this paper will deal with the identification and classification of errors and will show possible ways of their treatment through providing corrective feedback Finally an authentic student material will be analyzed according to the error analysis approach through showing what kind of errors and mistakes can be found and how they could be corrected Furthermore a feedback on improvement will be formulated Treatment of Error in Second Language Student Writing, Second Edition Dana Ferris,2011-09-21 Treatment of Error offers a realistic well reasoned account of what teachers of multilingual writers need to know about error and how to put what they know to use As in the first edition Ferris again persuasively addresses the fundamental error treatment questions that plague novice and expert writing specialists alike What types of errors should teachers respond to When should we respond to them What are the most efficacious ways of responding to them And ultimately what role should error treatment play in the teaching of the process of writing The second edition improves upon the first by exploring changes in the field since 2002 such as the growing diversity in what is called L2 writers the blurring boundaries between native and non native speakers of English the influence of genre studies and corpus linguistics on the teaching of writing and the need the move beyond error to second language development in terms of approaching students and their texts It also explores what teacher preparation programs need to do to train teachers to treat student error The second edition features an updating of the literature in all chapters a new chapter on academic language development a postscript on how to integrate error treatment language development suggestions in Chapters 4 6 into a writing class syllabus the addition of discussion analysis questions at the end of each chapter plus suggested readings to make the book more useful in pedagogy or teacher development workshops Error Analysis in the language learners at a wide variety of levels Error Analysis in New Language Acquisition Andrea Letzel, 2016-11-17

 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2010 im Fachbereich Anglistik Linguistik Note 1,3 Johannes Gutenberg Universität Mainz
 Sprache Deutsch Abstract Error Analysis used in second language analysis studies the errors learners make in speech and writing. It also studies the different types of errors and why they were made. In this term paper two different types of learners will be considered who perform spontaneously with the help of a picture story. There will be a special focus on the differences and similarities of their errors. There are various possibilities how samples of learner language can be influenced. Firstly the learner and his proficiency level have to be described and it is important if he speaks or learns other languages irrespective of the MT and the target language that is considered in the analysis. The way of instruction plays also an important role because instructed language learning provides a different error background as if the learner tries to learn the language naturalistically. The second part that has to be described is the language itself. The medium can either be oral or written. Generally the oral production consists of a more colloquial English for the simple reason that the learner has not as much time to think about formulation than in written speech. Therefore the Genre and the content of the language production is Error Evaluation and Error correction are additional parts that have not to be included in every Error Analysis. According to the dictionary of Linguistics the error analysis is subdivided and classified in modality levels of linguistic description form type and cause Induced errors - sources and pedagogical deductions Anja Dinter, 2007-06-08 Seminar paper from the year 2004 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics grade 1,7 University of Potsdam Institut für Anglistik und Amerikanistik course HS Errors in Second Language Learning language English abstract The following work discusses a specific type of error in the second language classroom induced errors. Regarding this category of error a wide range of reasons can elicit their commitment. A definition of the term induced errors as well as a description of its distinctive features will be provided before the different types of errors and their sources are going to be discussed in detail. Since the course Errors in Second Language Learning was designed for future teachers the section on induced errors and their sources will be followed by pedagogical deductions concerning the avoidance or at least reduction of induced errors Errors in English Annie B.
