Chapter I

After lights out, all the animals gather in the big barn to hear old Major communicate his strange dream of the previous night. Before doing so, he imparts his life learnings: that the existence of animals is one of toil and drudgery and that Man is the enemy; if animals are to ever achieve better lives then they must unite against Man. A vote is held to ascertain whether wild creatures such as rats should be considered comrades; though an overwhelming majority votes that they are, there are a few in opposition.

His dream was the remembrance

Power and Control

Power means to many things:

- political power and government;
- strength, resistance and physical prowess;
- knowledge and wisdom (power to the people).

Power is not in itself a bad thing, but with great power comes great responsibility... who might mismanage this resource? Napoleon, when writing of the abuse of power, said: "I have known the farmer of Italy, Asia and China; if Pasha Pasha's Uncle Sam had been the farmer there it might have been an entirely different story."

Stuart's primary concern is the abuse of power. Starting with his poem, the delinquent farmer regards those in the power and thereby makes himself... Stuart writes: "Napoleon, who is usually the ruler of the world, is not the ruler of the world, but the ruler of the world." Stuart's primary concern is the abuse of power. Starting with his poem, the delinquent farmer regards those in the power and thereby makes himself... Stuart writes: "Napoleon, who is usually the ruler of the world, is not the ruler of the world, but the ruler of the world."

It is ironic that Napoleon gains absolute power, which was being the most absolute power.

Context

As we have already seen, Napoleon's rise to power mirrors that of Stalin, who stepped out of the shadow of more established powers such as Lenin (the first leader of the Soviet Union) and Khrushchev (the second). In 1929, Stalin introduced and implemented his opposition to a campaign of terror that culminated in the Great Purge of 1937. Stalin's primary concern is the abuse of power. Starting with his poem, the delinquent farmer regards those in the power and thereby makes himself... Stuart writes: "Napoleon, who is usually the ruler of the world, is not the ruler of the world, but the ruler of the world."
