Forests and Globalization William Nikolakis, John Innes, 2014-09-19 The overarching contribution of this book is a review and assessment of the current and future impacts of globalization on the world s forests The work has been developed by the Resources for the Future Task Force for the International Union of Forest Research Organizations IUFRO Four key themes are addressed the effect of globalization on forests including future trade flows plantations as the primary source of forest products and its consequences including plant breeding and forest health the effect of new products such as bio products and markets on forests and the emergence of forest ecosystem services and their impact on the landscape and human communities These four themes are examined in detail to map out the impacts of these trends for forests throughout the world and at multiple scales and how forest research needs to be adapted to address these trends Overall the volume provides a major synthesis of current thinking and knowledge on the topic for advanced students as well as policy makers and professionals in the forest sector

Effects of Drought on Forests and Rangelands in the United States James M. Vose, James Samuel Clark, Charles Henry Luce, Toral Patel-Weynand, 2016 This assessment provides input to the reauthorized National Integrated Drought Information System NIDIS and the National Climate Assessment NCA and it establishes the scientific foundation needed to manage for drought resilience and adaptation Focal areas include drought characterization drought impacts on forest processes and disturbances such as insect outbreaks and wildfire and consequences for forest and rangeland values Drought can be a severe natural disaster with substantial social and economic consequences Drought becomes most obvious

when large scale changes are observed however even moderate drought can have long lasting impacts on the structure and function of forests and rangelands without these obvious large scale changes Large stand level impacts of drought are already underway in the West but all U S forests are vulnerable to drought Drought associated forest disturbances are expected to increase with climatic change Management actions can either mitigate or exacerbate the effects of drought A first principal for increasing resilience and adaptation is to avoid management actions that exacerbate the effects of current or future drought Options to mitigate drought include altering structural or functional components of vegetation minimizing drought mediated disturbance such as wildfire or insect outbreaks and managing for reliable flow of water

Integrated Pest Management in Tropical Regions Carmelo Rapisarda, Giuseppe E Massimino Cocuzza, 2017-12-11 This book provides up to date and comprehensive coverage of the research and application of Integrated Pest Management IPM in tropical regions The first section explores the agro ecological framework that represents the foundations of IPM in addition to emerging technologies in chemical and biological methods that are core to pest control in tropical crops The second section follows a crop based approach and provides details of current IPM applications in the main tropical food crops such as cereals legumes root and tuber crops sugarcane vegetables banana and plantain citrus oil palm tea cocoa and coffee and also fibre crops such as cotton and tropical forests

Multiaged Silviculture Kevin Laughlin O'Hara, 2014 This book presents the latest scientific and management information on multiaged silviculture an emerging strategy for managing forestry systems worldwide Over recent decades forest science and management have tended to emphasize plantation silviculture Whilst this clearly meets our wood production needs many of the world s forests need to be managed far less intensively and more flexibly in order to maintain their natural ecosystem functions together with the values inherent in those processes Developing multiaged management strategies for these complex forest ecosystems represents a global challenge to successfully integrate available science with sustainable management practices Multiaged Silviculture covers the ecology and dynamics of multiaged stands the management operations associated with regeneration tending and stocking control and the implications of this strategy on production genetic diversity and stand health It is primarily aimed at graduate level students and researchers in the fields of forestry and silviculture but will also be of relevance and use to all professional foresters and silviculturists

General Technical Report PNW-GTR, 1992 Ecosystem Services from Forest Landscapes Ajith H. Perera, Urmas Peterson, Guillermo Martínez Pastur, Louis R. Iverson, 2018-03-22 Over the last two decades the topic of forest ecosystem services has attracted the attention of researchers land managers and policy makers around the globe The services rendered by forest ecosystems range from intrinsic to anthropocentric benefits that are typically grouped as provisioning regulating supporting and cultural The research efforts assessments and attempts to manage forest ecosystems for their sustained services are now widely published in scientific literature This volume focuses on broad scale aspects of forest ecosystem services beyond individual stands to large landscapes In doing so it illustrates the conceptual and practical opportunities as well as challenges involved with planning for forest ecosystem services across landscapes regions and nations The goal here is to broaden the scope of land use planning through the adoption of a landscape scale approach Even though this approach is complex and involves multiple ecological social cultural economic and political dimensions the landscape perspective appears to offer the best opportunity for a sustained provision of forest ecosystem services

An Assessment of Forest Ecosystem Health in the Southwest Cathy W. Dahms,1997 This report documents an ecological assessment of forest ecosystem health in the Southwest The assessment focuses at the regional level and mostly pertains to lands administered by the National Forest System Information is presented for use by forest and district resource managers as well as collaborative partners in the stewardship of Southwestern forests The report establishes a scientific basis for conducting forest health projects provides a context for planning ecosystem restoration and contributes to the understanding of the physical biological and human dimensions of these ecosystems Chapters describe Southwestern forest ecosystems of the past changes since the Colonial Period and the implications of those changes for the health of current and future forests Opportunities tools and research needs for improving ecosystem sustainability are also identified

Blue Mountains Forest Health Report ,1991 Forest Health Conditions in Idaho ,1993 Clearwater National Forest (N.F), West Fork Potlatch Timber Harvesting, Road Construction, Reforestation and Watershed Restoration ,2001 Forest Health Through Silviculture ,1995 Infectious Forest Diseases Paolo Gonthier,Giovanni Nicolotti,2013

Today forest health and the management of threats towards it are attracting more and more attention on a global scale This book covers the most recent advances in the management of forest diseases including the epidemiology and infection biology of forest pathogens and forest protection based on integrated pest and disease management approaches A comprehensive range of diseases caused by viruses bacteria fungi and other organisms are discussed in detail making this book essential reading for forest managers and extension specialists Written by recognized authorities in the subject of forest health this book also provides a wealth of information useful for researchers and lecturers of forest pathology and ecology

State of the World's Forests 2007 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2007-01-01 This is the 7th edition of the FAO s biennial report on the state of global forest resources recent developments and emerging issues in the forest sector This edition focuses on progress towards sustainable forest management at the regional and global levels with each regional report structured according to seven thematic elements the extent of forest resources biological diversity forest health and vitality productive functions of forest resources protective functions of forest resources socio economic functions and legal policy and institutional frameworks These summaries are based on the most current information available including new data from the Global Forest Resources Assessment 2005 FRA 2005 The report goes on to consider 18 key issues in the forest sector including climate change forest landscape restoration forest tenure invasive species wildlife management and wood energy The overall conclusion is that whilst progress is being made it is very uneven with those regions with developing economies and tropical ecosystems continuing to lose forest area whilst lacking adequate institutions to reverse this trend

The biggest limitation for evaluating progress is weak data with many countries lacking the financial resources to undertake national forest assessments
