Richard Niesche, 2011-03-15 This book argues that the work of educational leadership needs more sophisticated theorisation in order to better understand the complexities that face many school principals Critical Conversations in Philosophy of Education

Wendy Kohli, 2013-09-13 Critical Conversations in Philosophy of Education presents a series of conversations expressing many of the multiple voices that currently constitute the field of philosophy of education Philosophy of education as a discipline has undergone several turns the once marginal perspectives of the various feminisms critical Marxism and poststructuralist postmodernist and cultural theory have gained ground alongside those of Anglo analytic and pragmatic thought Just as Western philosophers in general are coming to terms with the end of philosophy pronouncement implicit in postmodernism so too are philosophers of education faced with similar challenges challenges to long held moral political aesthetic and epistemological commitments The contributors take up these challenges through a dialogical structure expressing differing positions without engaging in destructive critique Foucault as Educator Stephen J. Ball, 2016-12-01

This book considers Foucault as educator in three main ways First through some consideration of what his work says about education as a social and political practice That is education as a form of what Allen 2014 calls benign violence which operates through mundane quotidian disciplinary technologies and expert knowledges which together construct a pedagogical machine Second through an exploration of his method as a form of critique That is as a way of showing that things are not as necessary as all that a way of addressing what is intolerable This suggests that critique is education of a kind Third through a discussion of some of Foucault's later work on subjectivity and in particular on the care of the self or what we might call a pedagogy of the self Each chapter introduces and discusses some relevant examples from educational settings to illustrate and enact Foucault's analytics

Foucault and Lifelong Learning Andreas Fejes, Katherine Nicoll, 2008-01-14 Over the last twenty years there has been increasing interest in the work of Michel Foucault in the social sciences and in particular with relation to education This the first book to draw on his work to consider lifelong learning explores the significance of policies and practices of lifelong learning to the wider societies of which they are a part With a breadth of international contributors and sites of analysis this book offers insights into such questions as What are the effects of lifelong learning policies within socio political systems of governance What does lifelong learning do to our understanding of ourselves as citizens How does lifelong learning act in the regulation and re ordering of what people do The book suggests that understanding of lifelong learning as contributory to the knowledge economy globalisation or the new work order may need to be revised if we are to understand its impact more fully It therefore makes a significant contribution to the study of lifelong learning

On the Politics of Educational Theory Tomasz Szukdlarek, 2016-11-03 On the Politics of Educational Theory considers the political significance of educational theory as a specific genre of public discourse Rather than understanding educational theories solely as addressing issues of childrearing and instruction this book aims to view educational theories in a broader socio political context It explores the role of educational theories in the construction of collective and political identities and analyses them as rhetorical strategies operating as political discourses Defining the methodological framework through the perspectives of Michel Foucault and Ernesto Laclau each chapter examines the ways in which theories of education contribute to the creation of social realities and identities Such issues as the construction of visibility and invisibility of power the tropes of temporality or the use of postulational language where theorists say what should be done in and by education are some of the threads that weave through particular theories from Rousseau to the discourse of education in the knowledge based society analysed as ontological rhetorics constitutive of political identities This book suggests a direction for a more conscious way of dealing with the political in education As such it will appeal to researchers academics and postgraduate students in the fields of educational research philosophy of education curriculum studies social and political theory and theory of education The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com/books/e/9781315712505> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Human Rights Education and the Politics of Knowledge Joanne Coysh, 2017-02-24 Around the world there are a myriad of NGOs using human rights education HRE as a tool of community empowerment with the firm belief that it will help people improve their lives One way of understanding these processes is that they translate universal human rights speak using messages and symbols which make them relevant to people's daily lives and culturally resonant However an alternative more radical perspective is that these processes should engage individuals in modes of critical inquiry into the ways that existing power structures maintain the status quo and control not only how we understand and speak about social inequality and injustice but also act on it This book is a critical inquiry into the production distribution and consumption of HRE and how the discourse is constructed historically socially and politically through global institutions and local NGO practice The book begins with the premise that HRE is composed of theories of human rights and education both of which are complex and multifaceted However the book demonstrates how over time a dominant discourse of HRE constructed by the United Nations institutional framework has come to prominence and the ways it is reproduced and reinforced through the practice of intermediary NGOs engaged in HRE activities with community groups Drawing on socio-legal scholarship it offers a new theoretical and political framework for addressing how human rights pedagogy knowledge and power can be analysed between the global and local by connecting the critical but well-trodden theories of human rights to insights on critical pedagogy It uses critical discourse analysis and ethnographic research to investigate the practice of NGOs engaged in HRE using contextual evidence and findings from fieldwork with NGOs and communities in Tanzania
