Monitoring and Evaluation in Health and Social Development Stephen Bell, Peter Aggleton, 2016-02-01 New approaches are needed to monitor and evaluate health and social development Existing strategies tend to require expensive time consuming analytical procedures The growing emphasis on results based programming has resulted in evaluation being conducted in order to demonstrate accountability and success rather than how change takes place what works and why The tendency to monitor and evaluate using log frames and their variants closes policy makers and practitioners eyes to the sometimes unanticipated means by which change takes place Two recent developments hold the potential to transcend these difficulties and to lead to important changes in the way in which the effects of health and social development programming are understood First there is growing interest in ways of monitoring programmes and assessing impact that are more grounded in the realities of practice than many of the results based methods currently utilised Second there are calls for the greater use of interpretive and ethnographic methods in programme design monitoring and evaluation Responding to these concerns this book illustrates the potential of interpretative methods to aid understanding and make a difference in real people's lives Through a focus on individual and community perspectives and locally grounded explanations the methods explored in this book offer a potentially richer way of assessing the relationships between intent action and change in health and social development in Africa Asia Europe and the Americas Empowerment and Participatory Evaluation of Community Interventions Yolanda Suarez-Balcazar, Gary Harper, 2014-01-02 Program evaluations are more relevant when conducted by the people directly involved in the programs and members of the communities they serve Learn how empowerment and participatory evaluation can help community programs deliver more effective services With this book you'll examine theoretical models empirical investigations and case studies that highlight important aspects of empowerment and participatory evaluation in community programs The first half of the book presents frameworks and tools for empowerment and participatory evaluation with an emphasis on transferring skills and building capacity The remaining chapters examine specific efforts to implement empowerment and participatory evaluation with a range of stakeholders highlighting the ways in which community members collaborated with evaluators and were actively engaged in the evaluation process Covering various types of evaluations across a range of urgent social issues this book offers practical steps for implementing evaluations and presents theoretical models as well as applied examples The issues that Empowerment and Participatory Evaluation of Community Interventions addresses include challenges faced by community based organizations in conducting evaluations of their initiatives and solutions to those challenges including the creation and implementation of an appropriate outcomes model ways to build capacity for participatory evaluation within community initiatives ways to promote the success and accountability of community programs how collaborative process evaluation can improve HIV prevention services evaluation techniques that illustrate the benefits of a collaborative approach with a case study of the Conflict Resolution in Schools Programs a pilot study in which empowerment evaluation principles are used to evaluate the American Red Cross of Greater Chicago's Youth Leadership Training Series a program designed to train youth volunteers Presenting important information on program evaluation community based interventions and community empowerment empowerment participatory evaluation community psychology collaborative partnerships program improvement utilization focused evaluation consultation and more Empowerment and Participatory Evaluation of Community Interventions is a resource that everyone involved in community psychology should have
