CASIO.

Getting Acquainted

Congratulations upon your selection of this CASIO watch. To get the most out of your purchase, be sure to read this manual carefully.

Applications

The built-in sensors of this watch measure direction, barometric pressure, temperature and underwater depth. Measured values are then shown on the display. Such features make this watch useful when hiking, mountain climbing, skin diving, or snorkeling, or when engaging in other such outdoor activities.

Keep the watch exposed to bright light

The electricity generated by the solar cell of the watch is stored by a built-in battery. Leaving or using the watch where it is not exposed to light causes the battery to run down. Make sure the watch is exposed to light as much as possible.

- When you are not wearing the watch on your wrist, position the face so it is pointed at a source of bright light.
- You should try to keep the watch outside of your sleeve as much as possible. Charging is reduced significantly if the face is only partially covered.

- The watch continues to operate, even when it is not exposed to light. Leaving the watch in the dark can cause the battery to run down, which will cause some watch functions to be disabled. If the battery gets dead, you will have to re-configure watch settings after recharging. To ensure normal watch operation, be sure to keep it exposed to light as much as possible.

Battery charges in the light.

Battery discharges in the dark.

- The actual level at which some functions are disabled depends on the watch mode.
- Frequent display illumination can run down the battery quickly and require recharging. The following guidelines give an idea of the charging time required to recover from a single illumination operation.
 - Approximately four minutes exposure to bright sunlight coming in through a window.
 - Approximately 10 minutes exposure to indoor fluorescent lighting.
- Be sure to read "Power Supply" for important information you need to know when exposing the watch to bright light.

General Guide

- The illustration below shows which buttons you need to press to navigate between modes.
- In any mode, press [D] to illuminate the display.

If the display of the watch is blank...

If the display of the watch is blank, it means that the watch's Power Saving Function has turned off the display to conserve power.

- See "Power Saving Function" for more information.

Warning!

- The measurement functions built into this watch are not intended for taking measurements that require professional or industrial precision. Values produced by this watch should be considered as reasonable representations only.
- When engaging in mountain climbing or other activities in which losing your way can create a dangerous or life-threatening situation, always be sure to use a second compass to confirm direction readings.
- This watch is intended for use up to skin diving and snorkeling. Never use this watch while scuba diving.
- Never operate the buttons of the watch while underwater.
- CASIO CORP., FRANKFURT, GERMANY, assumes no responsibility for any loss, or any claims by third parties, that may arise through the use of this watch.

About This Manual

- Button operations are indicated using the icons shown in the illustration.
- Each section of this manual provides you with the information you need in order to perform operations in each mode. Further details and technical information can be found in the "Reference" section.

- Pressing [D], [E], or [F] while in the Timekeeping Mode directly enters the applicable sensor mode. If you want to go to a sensor mode from the Depth Data Recall, Countdown Timer, Stopwatch, World Time, Alarm, or Receive Mode, go to the Timekeeping Mode first, and then press one of the above buttons to enter a sensor mode.
