Case Studies In Archaeological Predictive Modelling Case Studies In Archaeological Predictive Modelling:

Case Studies in Archaeological Predictive Modelling Philip Verhagen, 2007 Dutch archaeology has experienced profound changes in recent years This has led to an increasing use of archaeological predictive modelling a technique that uses information about the location of known early human settlements to predict where additional settlements may have been located Case Studies in Archaeological Predictive Modelling is the product of a decade of work by Philip Verhagen as a specialist in geographical information systems at RAAP Archeologisch Adviesbureau BV one of the leading organizations in the field the case studies presented here provide an overview of the field and point to potential future areas of research

The Cultural Landscape & Heritage Paradox Tom Bloemers, Henk Kars, Arnold Van der Valk, 2010 The basic problem is to what extent we can know past and mainly invisible landscapes and how we can use this still hidden knowledge for actual sustainable management of landscape s cultural and historical values It has also been acknowledged that heritage management is increasingly about the management of future change rather than simply protection This presents us with a paradox to preserve our historic environment we have to collaborate with those who wish to transform it and in order to apply our expert knowledge we have to make it suitable for policy and society The answer presented by the Protection and Development of the Dutch Archaeological Historical Landscape programme pdl bbo is an integrative landscape approach which applies inter and transdisciplinarity establishing links between archaeological historical heritage and planning and between research and policy

Archaeological 3D GIS Nicolò Dell'Unto, Giacomo Landeschi, 2022-02-06 Archaeological 3D GIS provides archaeologists with a guide to explore and understand the unprecedented opportunities for collecting visualising and analysing archaeological datasets in three dimensions With platforms allowing archaeologists to link query and analyse in a virtual georeferenced space information collected by different specialists the book highlights how it is possible to re think aspects of theory and practice which relate to GIS It explores which questions can be addressed in such a new environment and how they are going to impact the way we interpret the past By using material from several international case studies such as Pompeii ataly y k as well as prehistoric and protohistoric sites in Southern Scandinavia this book discusses the use of the third dimension in support of archaeological practice This book will be essential for researchers and scholars who focus on archaeology and spatial analysis and is designed and structured to serve as a textbook for GIS and digital archaeology courses The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4 0 license

Computational and Machine Learning Tools for Archaeological Site Modeling Maria Elena Castiello, 2022-01-24 This book describes a novel machine learning based approach to answer some traditional archaeological problems relating to archaeological site detection and site locational preferences Institutional data collected from six Swiss regions Zurich Aargau Grisons Vaud Geneva and Fribourg have been analyzed with an original conceptual framework based on the Random Forest algorithm It is shown how the algorithm can assist in the modelling process in connection with heterogeneous incomplete archaeological datasets and related cultural heritage information Moreover an in depth review of past and more recent works of quantitative methods for archaeological predictive modelling is provided The book guides the readers to set up their own protocol for i dealing with uncertain data ii predicting archaeological site location iii establishing environmental features importance iv and suggest a model validation procedure It addresses both academics and professionals in archaeology and cultural heritage management and offers a source of inspiration for future research directions in the field of digital humanities and computational archaeology

Best Practices of GeoInformatic Technologies for the Mapping of Archaeolandscape Apostolos Sarris, 2015-11-30 Twenty five papers from the Institute for Mediterranean Studies in Crete provide a best practice guide for the use of geophysical geoarchaeological geochemical and surveying techniques to study ancient landscapes

Modelling Human Behaviour in Landscapes Oliver Nakoinz, Daniel Knitter, 2016-04-08 This volume is designed as a 12 lecture textbook which can serve as a course companion self teaching guide and handbook for basic concepts Each lecture comprises 20 pages in which the methods are introduced examples shown and the code is given All examples are computed with open source software mainly R and with archaeological data available from the book's website The book does not describe elaborated high end models but rather very basic modelling concepts that serve as components in more complex models The book enables the reader to construct such models by themselves and be sensitive for certain problems In addition it gives hints for the interpretation of the results Students are usually quick to apply fancy methods yet fail in the proper interpretation due to a lack of understanding of the underlying principles This problem is addressed by the proposed book through three concepts 1 Command line software forces the students to first learn some details before they are able to produce results on their own 2 The book is focused on principles and methods When the students understand a few basic principles they have far better access to a wide range of related methods 3 Examples of poor analysis highlight common pitfalls The volume attempts to be an applied minimalistic and efficient textbook and is based upon several successful courses

Computational Science and Its Applications - ICCSA 2016 Osvaldo Gervasi, Beniamino Murgante, Sanjay Misra, Ana Maria A.C. Rocha, Carmelo M. Torre, David Taniar, Bernady O. Apduhan, Elena Stankova, Shangguang Wang, 2016-06-30 The five volume set LNCS 9786 9790 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 16th International Conference on Computational Science and Its Applications ICCSA 2016 held in Beijing China in July 2016

The 239 revised full papers and 14 short papers presented at 33 workshops were carefully reviewed and selected from 849 submissions. They are organized in five thematical tracks: computational methods, algorithms and scientific applications, high performance computing and networks, geometric modeling, graphics and visualization, advanced and emerging applications and information systems and technologies.

Using Computers in Archaeology Gary R. Lock, 2003 Today archaeologists are spending more and more time examining the past with the aid of computers. How does this increased dependence on technology affect the theory and practice of archaeology? Using Computers in Archaeology is a comprehensive review of computer applications in archaeology from the archaeologist's perspective. The book deals with all aspects of the discipline from survey and excavation to museums and education. Discussion covers the theoretical aspects of computer applications with particular reference to GIS and the analysis of data but technical jargon is kept to a minimum. With numerous illustrations, case studies and examples Using Computers in Archaeology is a timely introduction to this increasingly important area of archaeology catering both for the student and the experienced archaeologist.

Archaeology and Urban Settlement in Late Roman and Byzantine Anatolia John Haldon, Hugh Elton, James Newhard, 2018-11-22 The site of medieval Euchaita on the northern edge of the central Anatolian plateau was the centre of the cult of St Theodore Tiro the Recruit. Unlike most excavated or surveyed urban centres of the Byzantine period, Euchaita was never a major metropolis, cultural centre or extensive urban site, although it had a military function from the seventh to ninth centuries. Its significance lies precisely in the fact that as a small provincial town, something of a backwater, it was probably more typical of the average provincial Anatolian urban settlement, yet almost nothing is known about such sites. This volume represents the results of a collaborative project that integrates archaeological survey work with other disciplines in a unified approach to the region, both to enhance understanding of the history of Byzantine provincial society and to illustrate the application of innovative approaches to field survey.

Archeologia e Calcolatori, 13, 2002 - XIV Congress of the I.U.P.S. - Data Management and Mathematical Methods in

Archaeology François Djindjian, Paola Moscati, 2002-10-01 The Oxford Handbook of Historical Ecology and Applied Archaeology Christian Isendahl, Daryl Stump, 2019-01-10

The Oxford Handbook of Historical Ecology and Applied Archaeology presents theoretical discussions, methodological outlines, and case studies describing the field of overlap between historical ecology and the emerging sub-discipline of applied archaeology to highlight how modern environments and landscapes have been shaped by humans. Historical ecology is based on the recognition that humans are not only capable of modifying their environments but that all environments on earth have already been directly or indirectly modified. This includes anthropogenic climate change, widespread deforestations, and species extinctions, but also very local alterations, the effects of which may last a few years or may have legacies lasting centuries or more. With contributions from anthropologists, archaeologists, human geographers, and historians, this volume focuses not just on defining human impacts in the past but on the ways that understanding these changes can help inform contemporary practices and development policies. Some chapters present examples of how ancient or current societies have modified their environments in sustainable ways, while others highlight practices that had unintended long-term consequences. The possibilities of learning from these practices are discussed, as is the potential of using the long history of human resource exploitation as a method for building or testing models of future change. The volume offers overviews for students, researchers, and professionals with an interest in conservation or development projects who want to understand what practical insights can be drawn from history and who seek to apply their work to contemporary issues.

Tumuli and Megaliths in Eurasia João Caninas, Telmo Pereira, Paulo Félix, Isabel Gaspar, 2024-07-31

Tumuli and megaliths mark the landscape of Eurasia and are rich in data, mystery, and legends. Books about them are often monographic or have a local range. This collection of essays highlights and brings together 74 authors from 16 countries from Portugal to Japan and Indonesia. They offer a diversity of regional backgrounds, theoretical perspectives, and scientific approaches relevant to anyone working in history, archaeology, anthropology, and heritage. Densely illustrated and written in a way that is understandable to anyone, it is easily accessible to students, professors, researchers, and cultural or heritage managers. It will also attract anyone interested in past cultures, early religions, and ancient architecture. Its content makes it a mandatory book for the central and specialized libraries of any university, ID centre, museum, or visiting centre about this and other related issues.
